

Lucas Dixon

Researcher

Personal Info

Email

lucasdixon@email.com

Phone

123-456-7890

LinkedIn

linkedin.com/in/lucas.dixon

Skills

Data Analysis

Statistical Software (SPSS, R)

Teaching

Empathy

Academic writing

Qualitative research methods

Conferences

- Invited to talk at the 2019 American Psychological Association Annual Meeting.

Teaching Experience

- Cognitive Psychology, University of Houston, 2011-2015

Research Experience

- Lead Researcher, NASA's Johnson Space Center, 2011-Present

Additional Activities

- Volunteer, Houston Mental Health Awareness Charity, 2016-Present

A proactive researcher with 10+ years of experience teaching courses on undergraduate and postgraduate levels. Supervised 22 BA and 9 MA theses and published over 30 articles in peer-reviewed journals. Edited and co-authored 3 monographs on contemporary trends in psychology and psychoanalysis.

Professional Appointments

2011-01

- present

Lead Researcher

NASA's Johnson Space Center, Houston, TX

Responsibilities encompass overseeing various cognitive psychology research projects, including experimental design, data collection, analysis, and interpretation. Also collaborates with a team of researchers to ensure the smooth execution of studies and significantly contributes to advancing our understanding of the human mind.

Education

Department of Social Sciences, Ph.D., Psychology

University of Houston, Houston, TX

September 2005–May 2010

Thesis Title: "The role of cognitive dissonance in decision-making"

Thesis Supervisor: Prof. Jane Smith

Awards and Honors

2018, Outstanding Researcher Award, American Psychological Association

Grants and Fellowships

2017, Research Grant, National Science Foundation

Languages

English—Native proficiency

Spanish—Intermediate proficiency

Publications

Dixon, L., & Smith, J. (2012). Cognitive Dissonance and Decision-Making. Journal of Psychology.